Let me start from the beginning. I got these flashcards in February. I hated it when people get the flashcards and then reviewed it without telling me if they passed or failed the BOC exam using these flashcards, so I wanted to really put them to use, take the exam, see the results before writing the review. I didn’t start studying until May 2016. In fact, that was when I first started to buckle down really study for this exam. I couldn’t study while I had school so I waited till I graduated. Worked out perfectly for me. When I used these cards, I was overwhelmed by how much information there were in each card. THIS IS GOOD!! It gave me a dense and overall view of what this topic was about. I didn’t have to scramble for information in my textbook compared to this. There were a lot of flashcards and I studied every.single.card. I read it, highlighted, wrote on it and even took it with me to the plane when traveling to Jamaica for vacation. I took them to the beach and studied them. The information was precise and straight to the point. However, there were a few minor things that I needed to point out. These flashcards need to be updated just a little. I found a few and I mean like minuscule information that were outdated. When that happened, I simply referred to my textbook to make sure that the information was correct. These flashcards were not the only form of studying that I used. I used my Principles of Athletic Training and occasionally referred to my Evaluation of Orthopedics textbook. These three studying materials were my main sources. During the last week, before taking the exam, I only studied the flashcards. No textbooks. I took the exam June 2016, 3 weeks later I learned that I passed!! I couldn’t thank God enough! The Flashcards really contributed to my success. Every athletic training candidates should buy these flashcards. They are easy to read and when they say that they GUARANTEE RESULTS, please believe them. I got my guaranteed results for sure and I ain’t complaining haha. Do not wait till the last week before the exam to study them. It’s a lot to cover. I studied consistently for 5 weeks and my confidence continued to build up. I wish you guys the best of luck!!

Anytime you need to head out the door does not mean you need to stop studying. Just make sure you pick up this set of flashcards for the NATA-BOC Exam. They are easy to carry along no matter where you’re going or what kind of bag you have with you. Use them while commuting or while running errands, it’s up to you. But you’ll definitely feel more confident after using them. Get them and you’ll see how effective they are.

Flashards were helpful. Biggest downside is having to tear all of them apart and find somewhere to store them. I probably would have done better had I used them more frequently. Depending on an individual’s learning style I’d say they are helpful in preparing for the exam, but do not rely on them as your only source of studying.

Studying injury and illness prevention and wellness is a big job. I mean, think of all the various things that could be injured and the variety of diseases and illnesses out there. And then there are the ways that those things can occur. The list goes on and on. After taking a number of classes on the issues, sometimes they can get rather confusing. Keeping it straight, however, is important to the future of your career. That’s why these flash cards are so great. They keep your thoughts organized for you so you never get confused by your old notes from classes. You can simply get these cards out and study them because they have all of the material you need listed in an organized, comprehensive fashion. The first run through is a great way to judge how much you know. You can set aside the cards that tripped you up so you can study them more frequently. You can make another pile for the cards that you know well enough that you don’t have to look over them again. At times, the process is even a little bit fun. I found that succeeding in tests that include these topics is really in the little details of an illness or injury. These cards helped me figure out the details I needed to commit to memory in order to get through the testing process.

I found these flash cards and the NATA Exam Secrets Study Guide perfect for my test preparation. Both the book and the cards balance each other out perfectly. Thank goodness I found these two
There is no greater follow up to a complete testing guide than a good set of flashcards. In this set of flashcards, find all objectives the test will present. Each card presents in a question/answer format that is easy to follow and can be reviewed several times.

Flashcards for study are great. Flashcards for test prep are wonderful. This set of flashcards for NATA-BOC exam is outstanding. They offer just what is needed to prepare for this exam. They are worth the read. There are many cards in this set. Subject matters to be considered include contact/mailing information, clinical evaluation and diagnosis, immediate and emergency care, and other subject matters. When getting into these cards, the boldface subject headings make it easy to find certain topics for study. This set is not designed to be used in order. Therefore, they make it simple to select which topics individuals may want to study first or last. This set uses leading words that helps one to see how to answer certain questions. For example, there are words like explain, describe, and list at the beginning of questions, which lead in the direction of the answer. This set is in the basic design of any traditional flashcard. This simple design eases unnecessary preparation of the set. This set is easy to arrange. It travels well and is lightweight. There is a lot of information to cover on each flashcard. However, there is still enough room to make additional notes if desired. This set is easy to share with others, for example, classmates or friends would benefit greatly from this set. Use this set as a practice test, group review or on-the-go study.
